

MUSTANG DAILY

VOLUME 57, NO. 54 ★ FRIDAY, JANUARY 15, 1993

Powerful storm tears through San Luis Obispo

Crews work to repair damage done by high wind, heavy rain, fallen trees

By John Hubbell
and Liz Weber
Mustang Daily Staff

A subtropical storm packing powerful winds and torrential rains made for wild conditions in San Luis Obispo Wednesday and Thursday, bringing prolonged power outages, overflowing gutters and falling trees to the city and county.

As students in evening classes at Cal Poly were dismissed to meet howling gusts and pounding rain, lights in much of San Luis Obispo flickered — and then died.

"We began to get outages when high winds began at about 6:30 p.m.," said PG&E spokesman Brad Thomas. Darkened areas included much of downtown through Monterey, Higuera and Chorro streets west of Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa.

Many student apartments and houses near and around the university were affected, including Mustang Village, Valencia, Stenner Glen and Foothill Hacienda.

Despite nearly 25,000 city residents being left without power, Cal Poly stayed lit thanks to the university having its own generator.

More than an inch and a half of rain fell between 7 a.m. Wednesday to 7 p.m. Thursday on campus, according to Cal Poly Public Safety.

The university braved the storm largely without incident, but one student playing street hockey behind the school's tennis courts shortly after 5 p.m. slipped, hitting his head on a wall.

As Wednesday night gave way to Thursday morning, uprooted trees and debris were found scattered throughout the city as crews worked feverishly to clear them.

PG&E called crews from as far away as the San Francisco Bay Area and Bakersfield to help restore power, Thomas said.

Power to approximately 16,000 to 17,000 homes was restored by Thursday afternoon. Outlying areas should have been on line by either Thursday night or early Friday morning, he added.

"About 8,000 remaining homes are without power until late (Thursday night) or (Friday) because we have a number of power poles down," Thomas said.

Thomas said there are probably still many isolated power outages throughout the Central Coast. And repairing those is just as time-consuming as fixing major outages, he added.

The period was one of the busiest ever for the San Luis Obispo Fire Department, Rosenberger.

Rosenberger said the department responded to 29 calls Wednesday night, 20 of which came between 6 p.m. and 12 a.m.

The San Luis Obispo Police Department reported 83 calls, approximately 65 of which were storm-related. Twenty-one calls were related to fallen trees, and 11 were flood reports.

Fire Battalion Chief Lew Schmutz called 11 off-duty firefighters to assist the 12 on-duty personnel, fire officials said Thursday.

See WEATHER, page 6

Storm's rath darkens San Luis Obispo; causes students to put off homework

By Matthew Hoy
Staff Writer

The huge storm that knocked power out all over San Luis Obispo brought some unexpected excitement to an otherwise boring Wednesday night for several Cal Poly students.

Pacific Gas and Electric employee John Rebersdorf said he and his crew were "all over" trying to restore power to customers.

One outage was caused by a limb which fell on power lines across the street from Mustang Village near the corner of Foothill and California boulevards.

"The tree was leaning against the (power) line and was on fire," said computer engineering junior Chris White.

The flame changed from "blue to red to orange," White said. "All of us just ran. I thought the thing would blow up."

While White was around "just checkin' the place out," other Cal Poly students were trying to study.

"It's lame to do homework without light," said civil engineering sophomore Shani Howard.

Howard was studying physics with architecture sophomore Darrin Lee by

See STUDENTS, page 5

SUMAYA AGHA/Mustang Daily

Winds were strong enough Wednesday night to flatten trees and cause damage.

Students still hope to see King's dream

By Elayne S. Takemoto
Staff Writer

Twenty-five years ago, Martin Luther King, Jr. had a dream that one day people would be judged by the content of their character, not the color of their skin.

The riots and civil unrest of 1992, however, has led some African-American students and faculty at Cal Poly to believe King's dream has yet to be fulfilled.

"The civil rights movement put a lot of hope into blacks. They believed equality was almost in their hands," said Hezron Lopez, president of Cal Poly's African-American Student Union. "It also gave a lot of misguided hopes because we didn't have a system set up to make sure these things could happen."

Mechanical engineering senior Christopher Finley, former president of the National Society of Black Engineers, agreed. "They changed the laws that forbade black people from doing a lot of things," she said. "But they didn't change the attitudes of the people that caused these laws to exist."

The recent creation of an ethnic studies program in the College of Liberal Arts is one way Cal Poly has tried to institute diversity on campus.

Currently, 2.1 percent of undergraduate students and 0.74 percent of graduate students at Cal Poly designated themselves as black, according to the quarterly internal report for fall 1992 compiled by Institutional Studies.

But one professor said the

See MLK, page 5

STEVE MCCRANK/Mustang Daily

Students commemorating the birthday of Martin Luther King march from Dexter Lawn to the U.U.

'King day' peaks with rally, play

By Elayne S. Takemoto
Staff Writer

Rainy weather couldn't dampen the spirits of the students and faculty that turned out to celebrate Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday on Thursday.

At 11 that morning a group of about 50 students marched arm-in-arm from Dexter Lawn to the University Union, attracting students along the way and encouraging onlookers to join in.

The event, which included the march, speakers and singing, was sponsored by the African-American Student Union.

The skies cleared as hundreds of students showed up at the U.U. to pay their respects to the slain civil rights leader.

"He gave his life, he wanted equality for all men," said AASU president Hezron Lopez, one of the event's featured speakers. "He was nonviolent, but not passive."

The community of San Luis Obispo has also rallied to bring attention to the commemoration of King's birthday and the 25th anniversary of his death.

John Koger, a San Luis Obispo investment counselor, has written and directed "King to King," a play that will open tonight.

The play depicts the struggle of African-Americans throughout their American experience, Koger said.

See RALLY, page 7

Weekend events

Thursday's march and speeches were the beginning of several events commemorating Martin Luther King's birth.

Others include:

• Candelight vigil: 6 p.m. in front of Cal Poly Theater tonight. Free.

• 'King to King' play: An original work to be performed tonight in the Cal Poly Theatre at 7 p.m. $5 students, $10 general. Play will follow vigil.

More information: 541-4872.

INSIDE

Campus

ASI decides who should take control should its president need to be replaced / page three

City

Students at Cuesta College say proposed fee hikes would devastate them / page three

Sports

Mustang basketball center Shawn Kirkeby's collegiate sports career has ended / back page

WORLD★NATION★STATE

Bush said air strike on Iraq accomplished objective

Washington, D.C.

The White House said today that the military strike against Iraq took out only about half the targeted missile sites and radar installations. But President Bush called it "a big success."

Bush's national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, estimated that U.S. and allied planes destroyed "in the neighborhood of half" the eight targets they attacked Wednesday. But, he added, "We accomplished our objective."

The president himself told reporters in the Oval Office, "I think the mission was a big success. The skies are a little safer for our air crews, our pilots and airmen today. And let's just hope that Saddam Hussein got the message."

When a reporter asked about half the targets being missed, Bush said testily, "What about it? The skies are a lot safer

"Any further military action will depend heavily on Saddam's behavior."

Brent Scowcroft, national security adviser

today for our pilots."

White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, "In terms of accomplishing its political and diplomatic purposes, we think it certainly did send a strong message to Saddam Hussein that we are prepared to act to enforce the resolutions, that we have the political will and the military ability to do it."

"We made essentially one run; it lasted about a half-hour to 45 minutes. It's clear that we could have done as much damage as we wanted to if we'd wanted to spend more effort and military might," Fitzwater said.

He said Iraq's United Nations ambassador has given indications that Baghdad now will comply with the U.N. resolutions. "We'll have to wait and see," he added.

"Any further military action will depend heavily on Saddam's behavior," Scowcroft said on ABC's "Good Morning America."

At a Pentagon briefing to describe the bombing operation, spokesman Pete Williams said Iraq's aerial defense network was "now seriously degraded." He said "major parts of it do not work" because bombs had blown up much of the network's radar and command and control facilities.

But screening footage from cameras mounted on some of the 40 bombers that took part in the raid, Williams said the bombers had destroyed only one of the four anti-aircraft missiles Iraq had deployed south of the 32nd parallel. One was still operational and two others had been dismantled and dispersed by the Iraqis after the raid, he said.

Williams said that after the raid Iraq had also dismantled two missile sites north of the 36th parallel.

NEWS BRIEFS

Pro-lifers win protest suit

Washington, D.C.

Federal judges cannot stop protesters who try to block women's access to abortion clinics, the Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

The 5-4 decision, a victory for Operation Rescue and other anti-abortion protesters, means clinic operators must turn to state courts for help in thwarting blockades.

The ruling's impact may be blunted by President-elect Clinton.

A president has the power to order federal protection without any court injunction. President Dwight D. Eisenhower did so when he ordered National Guard protection of students during racial-integration efforts in the 1950s.

And federal law authorizes state officials lacking the resources to cope with massive lawlessness to seek federal law-enforcement help if they cannot "protect the lives and property of citizens or ... enforce the criminal law."

The ruling does not alter the core constitutional right of abortion, reaffirmed by the court in a landmark decision last June.

At issue, was the Ku Klux Klan Act of 1871 and its ban on conspiracies aimed at violating the constitutional rights of a "protected class" of people, such as blacks.

The court, ruling in a case from Virginia, said the 1871 law does not apply to those who participate in abortion blockades because women seeking abortions are not part of such a protected class.

"Whatever one thinks of abortion, it cannot be denied that there are common and respectable reasons for opposing it, other than hatred or condescension toward ... women," Justice Antonin Scalia wrote for the court.

In dissent, Justice John Paul Stevens called abortion blockades "a national conspiracy" that "presents a striking contemporary example of the kind of zealous, politically motivated, lawless conduct that led to enactment of the Ku Klux Klan Act."

"God be praised," said Randall Terry of Operation Rescue. "The most potent weapon the child killers had against us was the illegal use of the federal judiciary. That weapon was ... smashed to pieces."

Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League called the decision "devastating, a stunning setback and a sad, vivid reminder that America's battles over reproductive freedom are far from over."

Homeless Cinderella invited

Hayward, Calif.

Her gown is donated, her carriage a free airline ticket and there's nary a pumpkin in sight. But a homeless woman who campaigned for Bill Clinton is feeling every inch a Cinderella as she gets ready for the inauguration.

"I keep waiting to find the glass slipper," said Myrna Lewis.

"It was out of sight," she said. "I haven't been to a store in a long time, a real, live store that has price tags and stuff like that. I didn't know how to act at first."

The story of Lewis' trip to Washington began last October when she came to the South County Homeless Project in Hayward, a city on the east San Francisco Bay.

Despite being homeless, she volunteered as a precinct worker for Clinton, the first presidential candidate she has actively supported since John Kennedy.

Shelter public benefits advocate Ray Timmermans was struck by Lewis' political savvy and, after Clinton won, "it got me to thinking," he said. "There's this myth in society that people who are homeless tend to drop out or don't seem to care what goes on around them. I wanted ... to help dispel that myth."

So, he called his congressman, U.S. Rep. Pete Stark. Staffers there provided a ticket to the inauguration, one of 200 they had for the district, and a place to stay for the week.

Clinton holds Haiti policy

Washington, D.C.

Seeking to prevent an exodus of Haiti refugees, President-elect Clinton said today he would continue "for the time being" the Bush administration's policy of forcibly returning Haitians who flee to the United States.

"Those who leave Haiti by boat for the United States will be intercepted and returned to Haiti by the U.S. Coast Guard," Clinton said in Little Rock, Ark. His comments were made in a written statement for broadcast later in Haiti.

Clinton had raised the hopes of Haitians during the campaign by sharply criticizing the Bush administration's policy. Clinton had promised to give fleeing Haitians refuge and consider them for political asylum until democracy is restored in their country. He said he would urge other nations to follow his policy.

In the wake of Clinton's election, thousands of Haitians were said to be making preparations to flee their country by boat to seek haven in the United States.

Announcing his policy, Clinton said expressed deep concern about the dangers of fleeing by boat.

"The practice of returning those who flee Haiti by boat will continue, for the time being, after I become president," Clinton said. "Those who leave Haiti by boat for the United States will be intercepted and returned to Haiti by the U.S. Coast Guard. Leaving by boat is not the route to freedom."

Helicopter rescues rafters

Gilroy, Calif.

After two failed attempts to rescue a pair of rafters stranded in the middle of a swollen stream, a helicopter crew wearing night-vision goggles finally hauled the teen-agers to safety early Thursday.

Joey Limon and Nick Eredia, both 17, were plucked by the helicopter from a partly submerged island after clinging for about seven hours to bushes in chest-high, fast-moving water.

The pair became stranded after nightfall during what was to have been a brief raft trip down Uvas Creek, which flows from the mountains near Gilroy, 30 miles south of San Jose.

Cold, soaked and shaken, they were taken to an area hospital and released about an hour after a checkup.

Limon and Eredia set off with three other teens in a rubber raft at nightfall Wednesday, family members and friends said. The creek, mostly dry over the past few years of drought, had filled with the rain from a tropical storm that battered Northern California this week.

Three of the raft's passengers managed to reach shore and call for help after the raft capsized about a half-mile from where they started. Limon and Eredia scrambled onto the island as the water rose.

Limon's mother, Virginia Clark, said the boys told her they managed to stay above water by jamming bushes beneath their feet and holding on tight to the vegetation.

"They are typical boys," she said. "They just wanted to have some fun and it turned into a nightmare." After their release from the hospital, family members hustled them to waiting cars without allowing them to speak to reporters.

Compiled from Associated Press Reports

IZZY ORTEGA'S
MEXICAN RESTAURANT & CANTINA

Sunday Night Coffee Bar

Cool Jazz on CD • Complimentary Mexican Pastry

Gourmet Coffees • Cappuccino & Espresso

Sunday Nights • 9 pm - close

Izzy Ortega's • 1850 Monterey Street • Uptown San Luis Obispo • (805) 543-3333

ASI board decides presidential vacancy policy

Executive vice president would serve as the interim president

By Marla R. Van Schuyver
Staff Writer

After more than three months of debate, the ASI Board of Directors hammered out a policy Wednesday night for filling the ASI President's office in case of vacancy.

In the past, there has been no policy on who would succeed the president. The president's post could be vacated for a number of reasons, including academic ineligibility or illness.

Current President Kristin Burnett said she is not in danger of leaving office, but agreed that the board needed to figure out a succession policy.

"This is something that has needed to be done for some time," she said. "One of my main concerns was adopting a policy that keeps politics out of the process."

The board agreed to a policy whereby the executive vice president — who is appointed by the president — would serve as the interim president. The board would then vote on whether to accept the executive vice president as the new president. A two-thirds approving vote would be required to give the executive vice president the new job.

Should the board not approve the executive vice president, then a special election would be held, if the vacancy occurred before the beginning of winter quarter. If the vacancy occurred after winter quarter had begun, then the board would accept nominations for the post and vote on a new president.

Should the chair of the board be selected to succeed the president, then the vice-chair would take over the chair position.

Burnett said the policy is a good one because it prohibits two elections from occurring in a row. Elections for the following year's ASI officers are regularly held during third week of spring quarter.

force has been established to give students a voice to the administration on where they would like budget cuts to be made.

Gov. Pete Wilson's proposed budget released last Friday calls for a 4.5 percent — $67.7 million — reduction in funding to the administration and let them know what our concerns are," Burnett said. "If we all just let our emotions run wild, we will just seem noisy. The administration will tune us out."

"But if we work together, we will be loud and they will hear us," she said.

The task force is made up of representatives from each of the colleges. The group will meet for the first time next week.

A major goal of the task force is to produce questionnaires so students can choose where they would prefer cuts be made.

"I think it's important for the administration to know if the students would rather have a bigger library or more classes," Burnett said. "The survey will be thorough and allow the students the opportunity to decide what exactly they would like to have done."

Students wishing to get involved with the task force should meet with their college councils.

"This is something that has needed to be done for some time. One of my main concerns was adopting a policy that keeps politics out of the process."

ASI President
Kristin Burnett

Having a special election in winter quarter and regular elections in the spring quarter could cost the students up to $2,000 two quarters in a row, Burnett said.

In other ASI business, a task

California State University system. Cal Poly administrators have said the fund reduction will likely mean more cuts and student fee increases for next year.

"We want the students to have an organized way to get to the

Wilson's proposed budget may triple Cuesta costs

By Chris Brandi
Staff Writer

If you're thinking of going the cheap route by taking some classes at Cuesta College, think again.

If passed, Gov. Pete Wilson's 1993-94 budget would triple the cost of an education at Cuesta College.

The plan calls for cuts in the community college system as well as the California State University and the University of California.

CSUs would face a 4.5 percent cut which may result in fee hikes, reduced enrollment and the laying off of non-tenure

Community college fees could jump to $30 per unit track faculty at Cal Poly, university President Warren Baker said Tuesday.

And at Cuesta College, fees would jump from $10 to $30 per unit. A full time students' annual fees would skyrocket from $300 to $900.

For 18-year-old Cuesta student Joe McDonough, that would likely mean the end of his college education.

"If that was the case, I would not be able to go to school," he said. "Paying that much for a junior college education is ridiculous. I would have to drop out."

According to Cuesta College President Grace Mitchell, there appears to be a contradiction in what Californians want for education and what they're willing to pay for.

"The legislature and the people of California are going to have to make some decisions as to what kind of education they want to give students," Mitchell said Tuesday.

"My preference is not to raise (tuition) fees," she said. "I think that tax increases are an option that should be looked at."

Mitchell said if the proposed plan passed she would be in favor of raising financial aid to assist students. "The problem is that it all comes from the same source," she said.

Alan Barbieri, a 19-year-old Cuesta student who hopes to eventually attend Cal Poly, said the cuts are unfair to people like him.

"I don't think it's fair for local people, because if they are going to school where they grew up they shouldn't have to pay as much," she said.

There is a glimmer of hope left for students planning to attend community colleges. Last year, Gov. Wilson tried to raise fees to $20 a unit, but lawmakers held the increase from $6 to $10 per unit.

For 41-year-old Gail Mather, who is both working and attending classes at Cuesta, the fee increase would be devastating.

"I take one five-unit class and that would cost me $150, and that's without books," Mather said. "And I'm not even at college level yet. I am still trying to get to a level that will count."

APPLE ANNIE'S
212 Madonna Road
HOURS: 6:30 am - 9:30 pm M-T
6:30 am - 10:00 pm F & S
7:30 am - 4:00 pm Sunday

$1⁰⁰ OFF ANY OMELET

OVER 20 OMELETS TO CHOOSE FROM INCLUDING VEGETARIAN!

APPLE ANNIE'S EXP 2/8/93

$1⁰⁰ OFF ANY BURGER

OVER 20 BURGERS TO CHOOSE FROM!

APPLE ANNIE'S EXP 2/8/93

WE HAVE SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY'S LARGEST SELECTION OF MOUNTAIN & ROAD BIKES!

ART'S CYCLERY

Bell Triumph Helmet

suggested retail: $49.95

SALE: $39.95

WITH THIS AD

SCHWINN

TREK

Kestrel

SPECIALIZED

ULTRA-WHEELS

DIAMOND BACK

Kona Bikes

FUSO

Bontrager

Ritchey

• We accept our competitors coupons!
• We have the best prices!

SLO
198 SOUTH ST.
543-4416

LOS OSOS
2179 10TH ST.
528-5115

COMMENTARY

In shadow of White America

By Charles DeFlanders

To many, the status of the Negro in America was determined in the year 1619. Whatever that status may be, the arrival of the Negro would change the fabric and history of America, and they would indelibly stamp their social, political and economic heritage upon the American soul forever.

Most Americans do not know that the Negro first arrived in America as a free person. When the white man saw that the Negro was beginning to mix comfortably with whites, he then passed and enforced heinous laws that would keep the Negro in his place. In time, the status of the Negro changed from a free person to an enslaved person.

The hostile laws that the white man passed stripped the Negro of any social, economic and political station in America. The White man also used his laws to create an empire of social, economic and political wealth, and the Negro became his main source of production. As property of the white world, he or she would be viewed as an unwanted element of life in the society of the Anglo-American.

For years to come, the Negro, to many white Americans, would be considered a "pariah," a person with tremendous shortcomings who must be kept at a distance from the clean world of White America. He or she is seen as a despicable element of the human race, a heathen. In other words, the Negro must be kept in check so he or she would not become a nuisance or menace to the white social order of America.

To right the wrongs of America's past atrocious history, the Emancipation Proclamation and the 1964 Civil Rights Laws were passed to dismantle inimical laws and behavior demonstrated by some white Americans toward the Negro. As we have seen in recent years across the country, such hostile attitudes and behavior have surfaced once again throughout America, and once again the Negro still finds his citizenship in question.

The Emancipation Proclamation and the passing of the Civil Rights Laws were supposed to be the documents that would free the Negro from the shackles of slavery and hostility to freedom. Once freed, the Negro was promised that he would receive 40 acres and a mule to start a new life of his own. I believe this was an attempt to restore some of the dignity he or she lost during slavery. Well, as you may know, the Negro never received the 40 acres and a mule — and this became the first broken promise of America to the Negro.

Since that broken promise, the Negro has served and defended the soil of America in five different wars, and yet he has never received full recognition for his dedication and service to America. I know that not all White Americans are guilty of the crime of slavery and racism, but I have often pondered the question, "Why has America resented the Negro so much and for so long? One must wonder, is there something about the Negro that is shameful some White Americans see that we don't see ourselves?"

Well, as African-Americans, we must not wait around for the answer to these questions. It is time to move forward with a sense of urgency to find the real treasures of some of our history, and not waste time and energy on being sad about our past. I know that for a brief moment in America we were made to feel ashamed about our history and not to talk publicly about ourselves. Our reluctance to do so was largely due to over 300 years of social, political and economic suppression by the Anglo-American. I am convinced more than ever that we no longer have to compromise ourselves and our integrity to satisfy white Americans. As African-Americans, we do not have to use the social norms of the Anglo-American or any other culture to measure our success or failure; our livelihood does not begin nor end with white Americans.

The road has been paved enough for African-Americans to begin a strong quest toward exercising their beliefs and displaying more of their cultural heritage without fearing resentment from White America. If some people show ill will towards our pride, then I believe we have come far enough to deal with such a gratuitous attitude. I wholeheartedly believe the tone of America is changing swiftly, and I see America becoming more accepting and less hostile towards people of color. In other words, I believe many white Americans across the country are overcoming their fears of people who do not resemble themselves.

The future task for many African-Americans across the country is to make a real attempt to find themselves through their history. I believe many of us have lost ourselves while trying to catch the train of the American dream. As we have pursued such a dream, some of us have become lethargic about our history. There must be a relentless pursuit and a resurgence of our history if we are ever going to find the core of ourselves.

I can say with confidence that many African-Americans are confused because they lack the fundamental knowledge of their history. There is no question the search for the self is an arduous journey, but we know that the journey must be made — it is inevitable, if we strive to rediscover ourselves through our own history. One can be sure that we will find the right passage of knowledge that will help us detach ourselves from one of the sins of history that has kept us trapped for decades; that is, finding ourselves standing in the shadow of the Anglo-American.

Charles DeFlanders works in Cal Poly's Financial Aid Department and is a frequent columnist for the Daily.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reader insulted

This is in response to Tuesday's commentary from a certain non-objective "editor-in-chief" who heads a down-sliding school paper. To protect this person, I'd like to refer to him as Blinky.

I, along with others that I know, are tired of the lack of journalistic ethics that we have had to put up with since Blinky has been at the helm. Understandably, commentaries are opinion, but are there regulations of good taste? This week's slam on his former prof is only a small but significant example of how I feel he abuses his publishing rights in the name of free speech, without regard to diplomacy and "human courtesy."

My question to you, Mr. Blinky, is do you think it is "good journalism" to refer to a teacher as a "walrus on heroin" and say that you respect authority in the same breath? Or get your point across by using profanity? Or speak on behalf of 720 (600 former plus 120 current) "defenseless students," assuming that they ALL feel as unfulfilled as you do?

As support for your argument, you also took the liberty of speaking for students who have tried to do teacher evaluations to no avail.

Blinky, according to your premises those "circuit heads" in the electronic/electrical engineering department must be ahead of their peers in this area, since they have administered their own evaluations. In addition, they have their own department council (EEEC) for a voice in administrative affairs pertaining to their curriculum. Please try to get off your swivel chair and do some real investigative journalism before you continue to hinder the image of what tries to be a respectable newspaper. It might even mean you have to act "grown up."

Otherwise, I'm sure there wouldn't be a problem with you getting a co-op with The Star or Enquirer based on your efforts to get a response from your readers via yellow journalism.

Just don't insult us with unscrupulous personal opinion, but rather report the news!

Joey Garcia
Electronic Engineering

Column wasn't 'responsible'

Peter Hartlaub's commentary in Tuesday's Mustang Daily (Jan. 12) in which he expressed his opinion about, and applied a derogatory nickname to, a particular sociology professor moved me to respond.

I agree with the premise of his argument that an open system of instructor evaluations is needed at this university; however, I strongly object to the way he presented this argument.

His commentary included student demand for courtesy and fairness, yet he accorded the professor maligned in his piece neither of these niceties. He attacked, ridiculed and belittled this individual in a very callous and flippant manner. He used his position as editor of Mustang Daily as a means to accomplish on a personal level what the ASI has been unable to accomplish for all students of the university.

It is admirable that the ASI has been actively seeking a legitimate forum in which students can exchange views and evaluations of given instructors. Mr. Hartlaub's name calling, mean-spirited and sophomoric presentation of the issue, if anything, will most likely impede any progress that has been made by the ASI.

Yes, we've all had professors we wouldn't recommend to fellow students, but Mr. Hartlaub's method is clearly not the answer, nor is it responsible journalism. I liken it to going to a five-star restaurant and ordering a fine bottle of wine only to find it served in Fred Flintstone jelly-jars. There is something to be said for cultivating the art of presentation.

Marta Madden
Social Science

Corrections:

The article entitled "Galerie events dare students to face social issues" in the Jan. 14 issue of Mustang Daily erroneously reported artist Rupert Garcia's lecture as occurring on Thursday. The lecture will actually take place tonight in room 221 of the University Union.

In the same issue, the article "Parking problems persist" mistakenly listed campus parking hours requiring a permit as running from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. The correct hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mustang Daily apologizes for the errors and any inconveniences they may have caused.

MUSTANG DAILY STAFF 1992 - 1993

Editor-in-Chief - PETER HARTLAUB
News Editor - JOHN HUBBELL
Opinion Editor - BRYAN BAILEY
A&E Editor - KATHERINE GILL
Features Editor - EDWIN BILL
Sports Editor - CAM INMAN
City Editor - CAROLYN NIELSEN
Photo Editor - SHERRY GURTNER
Illustrator - MATTHEW HUBAL

Art Director - CRAIG STOUT
Photo Staff - SUMAYA AGHA
MARK DAYBELL, STEVEN J. MUELLER, STEVE PIERCE, STEVE MCCRANK, CARL LAZANSKY
RAY CESAR SANCHEZ
Adviser - HERB KAMM
Political Analyst - RON DUNIN
Weather Analyst - SHARON GRAVES

Business Mgr. - A.J. SCHUERMANN
Ad Director - MATT MACOMBER
National Sales Mgr. - LISA MARTINEZ
Credit Manager - JOHN BRASHEARS
Classifieds - PATRICIA ALLEN, LEEANDRA CHURCH, KELLY MACIVER, JOY NIEMAN
Computer Operations - DAN MALONE, CARLOS RELOVA

Account Executives - STEVE BETTERLY
DAN BURKE
MARY KAY DUFFY
JEFF HOLLISTER
TIFFANY JORDAN
MATT LEUTZA
NELSENE TORIANO
Subscriptions - KRISTY KELLEY

Ad Design - RODNEY KUSANO
MILES STEGALL
Production - CORAL DAWSON, AMY HUMMEL, JODI MEYER, KRIS ROCKHOLD, CAROL REYNOSO
Circulation Manager - SCOTT KARLE
Recycling Mgr. - JANE WOODING
Maintenance Engineer - JEFF ELLIS

Mustang Daily offices are located in Graphic Arts Room 226, Cal Poly University San Luis Obispo, CA 93407. Phone: (805)756-1143, Fax: (805)756-6784. All material in Mustang Daily is the property of Mustang Daily. No editorial material or photographs may be republished without approval from the Mustang Daily editorial staff and the Mustang Daily business manager. Advertisements and stories are copyrighted by Mustang Daily and may not be reprinted without written permission from the business manager. Printed by University Graphic Systems.

Late night food run ends with six injured

By Anita Kreile
Staff Writer

When seven friends decided to take a spin late Wednesday night, they had no idea it would be a 135-degree spin in the middle of a darkened intersection.

One passenger, whom his friends called "Skippy," received serious injuries and was taken away in an ambulance.

The other six male occupants of the brown Chevrolet Caprice, driven by Cuesta College student Sergio Contreras, suffered bumps and bruises when their car was struck broadside at the intersection of Madonna and Los Osos Valley roads.

Eighteen-year-old John Goodwin was the only occupant wearing a seat-belt. He was sitting in the back seat.

Skippy was removed from the back seat of the vehicle and placed on a backboard by paramedics. His neck was stabilized with a collar.

The carload of friends left a nearby residence at about 11 p.m. as a violent storm raged, causing power outages throughout the city. Contreras said they were on their way to Taco Bell through a darkened neighborhood with no working traffic light as the vehicle approached the intersection northbound on Madonna Road.

Contreras appeared shaken as he stood in the driving rain and explained what had happened.

"I made a stop," he said. "I stopped right there. You know, like when the lights are out you are supposed to stop; make a four way stop. I stopped. And then I just went; I pushed the gas and then this guy, he just came on the side and hit me!"

The driver of the car that struck his was not available for comment. The vehicle apparently failed to stop before entering the intersection eastbound on Los Osos Valley Road.

There were several witnesses to the accident.

The passenger in the car that struck Contreras' said that, although he had been drinking, the driver of the car had not. The passenger, a man in his 20s, with long, blond hair, said he didn't know why the driver failed to stop.

"I don't know," he said, "I wasn't driving. I wish I was drunker; now I have to walk home."

STUDENTS

From page 1
candlelight.

"I was hoping the teachers would cancel our tests tomorrow," Lee said. "It's only fair. I have (Professor) Wall at 9:40 a.m. Hopefully power stays out so he doesn't wake up."

Howard and Lee were out walking earlier that evening, but "when we decide to study, (the) power goes out," Howard said.

Lee's roommates, however, weren't studying with him. "All my roommates went out and are probably getting drunk right now," he said.

The rain wasn't kind to Lee's house, either. "The backyard is a pool," he said. "(It's) completely flooded."

Howard made it clear that this year's wet weather was unexpected. "I think I maybe wore a jacket once last year," she said.

Architecture senior James Phillips was up late working on a project for his architecture class by candlelight. "Arch keeps you busy," he said.

Landscaper Rick Storni had his generator creating power for him.

"Hey, I've got it made," he said. "I don't think (the generator) is bothering anybody," Storni said. Without it "I guess I'd be in the dark tonight."

Cal Poly forestry and natural resources junior Scott Elliott and liberal studies junior Christine Keffury were at Sierra Vista Regional Medical Center waiting for Keffury's sister-in-law to give birth when the power went out.

The power outages made everything about the birth harder.

"There are no lights in her room," Keffury said. "We had to go out and heat water and bring it back to her."

The lack of lighting at the hospital has made things more difficult.

"You have to go to the bathroom by braille," Elliott said.

RALLY

From page 1

In his first effort as a playwright, Koger said, he has been spending as much as 10 to 12 hours a day on the play.

The play, a series of vignettes, will span American history, including the movement for civil rights in the 1960s as well as the recent aftermath of the Rodney King incident.

"I hope the people who come out of the play will at least have a heightened sense of awareness about civil rights," Koger said.

"Racism could end tomorrow if we wanted it to," he added.

"But people need to work together to eliminate it."

Koger is the organizer of Koger Kamp, a group that brings inner-city children to San Luis Obispo and the Central Coast.

Some of the children who came up from Los Angeles during the first two visits to the area will return to act in the play, Koger said, as well as students from San Luis Obispo High School.

Koger has also organized a candlelight vigil to be held tonight at 6 p.m. in front of the Cal Poly Theater. "King to King" will begin at 7 p.m. and is open to the public.

MLK

From page 1

minimal number of minority students defeats the purpose of ethnic studies courses because of the lack of what he calls "critical mass."

"We have to have thousands of people of color so that education becomes part of your life, not just something that happens in the classroom," said Donald Cheek, an African American professor of social psychology and education.

He added that the program may only provide a limited form of education because the ethnic experiences taught in the classroom cannot demographically be reinforced on the campus. "Some faculty and students are oblivious to the world of the people of color," he said.

Cheek said another point of concern for students and faculty alike is the difficulty in attracting and retaining professors and administrators of color.

"When you look at the total climate of Cal Poly, it is very inhospitable and very negative in terms of an awareness of trying to make a welcome atmosphere to people of color," he said.

The school's inability or unwillingness to compensate or recognize the accomplishments of minority faculty is one reason professors don't want to stay, Cheek said. He cited Sidney Ribeau, former Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, as an example. Ribeau left to take a promotion at Cal Poly Pomona last year, becoming the school's Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Finley said he believes Cal Poly, and in fact collegiate education as a whole, has a long way to go before minority students are fairly represented.

"The educational process in general in this country, to me ... wasn't created to educate people of color, period," he said. "I think that attitude is still there."

"Cal Poly wasn't built for me or anybody of color in the first place," he said. "I think (that) still holds today."

Top 5 Rejected Mustang Daily Mottos

Mustang Daily
So thick and chunky you can eat it with a fork

Mustang Daily
If you see Elvis, come see us

Mustang Daily
First person that finds the daily libelous statement gets a free toaster

Mustang Daily
Well get the news - even if it's in Warren Baker's closet

Mustang Daily
All the news that's fit to print in an eight page tabloid

CAL POLY SKI CLUB

SKI CLUB HOT LINE : 756-SKIS

North Shore
FEB 4 - 7

MT Bachelor
FEB 12 - 15

Sierra Summit
FEB 19

Bear Valley
FEB 26 - 28

Spring Trip!

March 20 - 27
in Steamboat
Colorado
$369.00

For More Info
stop by U.U.
Table M - F
10 - 2

art nouveau renoir wildlife n... el adams
sports mc escher nostalg... gogh rockwell celebrities roc... les
b&w photography rockwel... ck
and roll mc... nouvea...
ansel ada... ts m...
prints... rockw...
nouve... lifelife
movi... art
rock...
not...
sp...
p...

LAST DAY!

Art and Print SALE

El Corral Bookstore

MON-THUR
7:45am-7:00pm
FRI 7:45am-3:45pm

ONE WEEK ONLY!!

SWEATERS FROM
GENUINE WOOL
by Altiplano
ECUADOR

JANUARY 19-22
in the Foundation Plaza

El Corral Bookstore
between ATM and Sandwich Plant

Now At Copeland's Sports

Kemper
ACCELERATOR SNOWBOARD
Kemper's all around free riding design
SAVE $100 OFF
EVERYDAY PRICE
OF $349.99
249.99 EACH
3 DAYS ONLY!

SKI EQUIPMENT

SKI & BOOT PACKAGE
Includes: Kastle Air, Boreon Ski, Nordica 458 Boots, Marker M27 Bindings & Airrite Poles.
299.99 A PKG.

SELECTED GROUP SKI & BINDING PACKAGES
25% OFF
Pre Christmas Everyday Prices

SELECTED GROUP BOOTS
25% OFF
Pre Christmas Everyday Prices

SKIWEAR

INSULATED BIBS FOR MEN & WOMEN
Men's sizes S-XL, Women's sizes S-L.
39.99 EA.

ENTIRE STOCK INSULATED & INTERCHANGEABLE SKI PARKAS
For Men & Women.
25% OFF
Fall '92 Everyday Prices

POLYPRO THERMAL TOPS & BOTTOMS
For Men & Women.
Polypropylene Thermal Wear.
$18 EA. OR 2 FOR $25

POLYPRO WOOL SKI SOCKS
Men's sizes 10-13, Women's sizes 7-9.
2 FOR $12.99

ATHLETIC APPAREL

STARTER TEAM LOGO HOODED SWEATSHIRT
Special purchase.
34.99 EA.

REEBOK NYLON JACKETS
Special purchase. Assorted styles.
24.99 EA.

TENNIS
prince PRO KENEX Wilson
Tennis racket special group
• Oversize • Midsize • Widebody • Pre-strung
39.99 EA.

RACQUETBALL
PRO KENEX
Racquetball racket special group
• Oversize • Aluminum • Midsize • Composite
30% OFF
Fall '92 Everyday Prices

EXERCISE

STANDARD WEIGHT PLATES
Any Combination
100 LBS.
$30
Special group of 1" hole standard plates must be purchased in 100 lb. increments of approximate printed poundage to qualify.

155 LB. CHROME WEIGHT SET
Chrome plates. 5" chrome bar with collars. (2) chrome dumbbell handles with collars.
79.99 EA.

ANY CROSS COUNTRY MACHINE IN STOCK
50% OFF
Pre Christmas Everyday Prices

ANY EXERCISE BIKE IN STOCK
30% OFF
Pre Christmas Everyday Prices

100% Cotton JERSEY WORKOUT SHORTS
Special group. Large assortment of colors.
14.99 EA.

ATHLETIC SHOES

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC SHOES
Special group 1991-92 models. Aerobic • Court • Running
30% OFF
SPRING 1991-92 PRICES

KID'S BASKETBALL SHOES
Special group. Slightly irregular.
19.99 A PAIR

REEBOK 884600
MID Leather upper. Basketball shoe. Disc. style.
34.99 A PAIR OR TWO PAIR FOR $65

ASICS GEL SAGA
Asics Gel cushioning system. Disc. color.
44.99 A PAIR OR TWO PAIR FOR $85

NIKE AIR FLIGHT HI
Large volume Air sole unit. Disc. style.

NIKE AIR TRAINER TW LITE
Airsole cushioning system. Disc. style.

RIDGE MONTANA HIKER
Durable lightweight hiker with steel shank.

REEBOK BOULEVARD 7/8
BLACK TOP SERIES
Leather upper. Hexalite cushioning system. Disc. style.

BASEBALL

BASEBALL GLOVES
Special group 1992 models. From Rawlings, Mizuno & Easton.
30% OFF
OFF SPRING 1992 PRICES

BASEBALL SOFTBALL BATS
Special group 1992 models. From Easton, Mizuno and Worth.
30% OFF
OFF SPRING 1992 PRICES

NIKE AIR SLIDER
Metal cleated baseball shoe with Air sole unit in heel.
59.99 A PR.

NIKE AIR SNOW METAL
A Hi-top baseball shoe provides additional support. Metal cleats.
69.99 A PR.

NIKE AIR CLIPPER
Leather upper with metal cleats. Nike's top of the line baseball shoe.
79.99 A PR.

NIKE BASEBALL

NIKE SLASHER
Metal cleated baseball shoe with a lightweight black Dynalite upper. Disc. style.
19.99 A PAIR

Copeland's Sports
962 MONTEREY STREET
SAN LUIS OBISPO
HOURS: MON-WED 10-6, THURS 10-9, FRI & SAT 10-7, SUN 11-5

Threat shuts Engineering West

By Stephen Lamb
Staff Writer

Cal Poly's Engineering West building was evacuated Thursday at approximately 12:45 p.m. after Public Safety was notified of a bomb inside the building.

"The call was made to the Health Center from another building on campus," said Public Safety Sgt. Bob Schumacher. "We had to evacuate this entire complex, lock the exterior doors and post signs."

Schumacher said the officers then inspected the building and looked for anything out of the ordinary.

He also indicated that no particular building has been targeted during recent bomb threats. "It's been really random," he said. "No certain building has been singled out."

When inspectors found nothing unusual, students were allowed back into the building at about 2 p.m. Many seemed annoyed at the recurring threats.

"My car keys and wallet are in there and I have to go to work," said engineering senior Angelina Scott. "They don't even let you get any of your things or your money to buy something to eat."

Journalism junior Cecilia Hastings was printing her last contact sheet in the photography lab when she was told she had to leave.

"It makes me mad because it sets back a lot of time. Usually I'm trying to get my work done," Hastings said. "It's a waste of time. It's really inconsiderate of that person."

WEATHER

From page 1

In San Luis Obispo, an approximately 50-foot tall tree fell on the Budget Cafe at 3121 S. Higuera Street.

Owner Michael Marlowe said the tree was still on the building Thursday afternoon, but wasn't interfering with business.

"We got really lucky," Marlowe said. "If it had fallen a few feet forward, we would have been in big trouble."

At the intersection of Highland and Stanford streets shortly after 10 p.m., neighbors saw through a fallen tree which spanned Highland.

Aeronautical engineering senior Jon Goughnour stood braced against the wind as he flagged down traffic on Stanford.

But motorists turning onto the 600 block of Stanford Street from Highland were met only by another fallen tree that spanned the road and had smashed a parked car.

"I was just watching it today, too," said Stanford Street resident Peter Hom, who saw the tree fall in front of his home.

"This is probably the biggest one that's ever fallen."

"You've got plenty of firewood," one bystander told Hom.

"I don't need firewood," Hom responded jokingly. "I quit using my fireplace."

Friday is expected to be mostly cloudy locally with a chance of rain. Highs will be in the upper 50s.

Staff writers Matt Hoy, Anita Kreile and Marla R. Van Schuyver contributed to this report.

Fast Contacts for SLO People offering same day replacement on most soft and gas permeable contact lenses

Keep in Contact
Optometric Services of San Luis Obispo

David A. Schultz, O.D.
Contact Lenses and Unique Eyewear

778 Marsh Street, SLO 543-5200

DON'T SIT IN THAT CLASS ALL TERM
UNLESS YOU ARE PROPERLY ENROLLED

*If you are not properly enrolled
you will not*

recieve a grade

ADD CLASS DEADLINE
JANUARY 19

Check your Schedule

CALL CAPTURE

(756-7777 Or 756-7888)

through January 26th

to list your classes

You are responsible!

A reminder from the Office of Academic Records

CAL POLY STATE UNIVERSITY
SAN LUIS OBISPO

MUSTANG DAILY
MUSTANG DAILY
MUSTANG DAILY
MUSTANG DAILY

Mustang Daily
is the only
student run
daily newspaper
in the United States of America produced entirely on campus.

Beware.

To Advertise
Call 805-756-1143
Fax 805-756-6784

MUSTANG DAILY

RM 226 • GRAPHIC ARTS
CAL POLY • SLO • 93407

Winter 1993 Program Schedule

Start Time	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday	Start Time
	91 News	8am, 9am, and	5pm for 15min	Weekdays	91 News
1am	Audioscapes	Jeanne	Ed	Arby	Ed & Amy K.	Interzone	Guest D.J. du Jour	1am
2am	Ed							2am
3am				Doug				3am
4am	Kit	Mike Curtin	Fernando Buttsteak		Dave W.	Rob W.	Justin	4am
5am								5am
6am				Chuck & Zeke				6am
7am	Craig V.	Dudley Do Wright	Morning Missile	Two Virgins Herbarium	Radio Verite	Elrod	Alex	7am
8am								8am
9am	Jello	Liz		Tornado	EZ Whip		Sunday Morning	9am
10am			D.J.			Texaco	Impromptus	10am
11am	Lynette	Holly Angel		Cyndi Gap		Metropolitan	(Classical)	11am
12pm			Covers		Amy J.	Opera	Khanh	12pm
1pm	James P.	Lyn	Purple Tupied	Christy C.				1pm
2pm			Larry		Betsy Boo	Live in Studio B	Sumaya	2pm
3pm	Emily	Ken	Sumaya	Steve Oda				3pm
4pm		Cheeseboy			Justine	Allan	Ethnic Issues	4pm
5pm	Nealsynepheran	College	Skaboom	Schmaltz			Aztlan Revival	5pm
6pm	New Releases	Countdown	(Ska)	7" of Love	Burnt Dog Blues	Hardcore	w/ El Alacran (Latino)	6pm
7pm	Sumthin' for the Eardrum (Rap)	Current Affairs	Rhythm and Roots (Reggae)	Indie Hour	New Wave Mania	Saturday by Request	Sportstalk	7pm
8pm		Jazz		Import Hour			Burnt Dog Rodeo	8pm
9pm				Screening Room (Soundtracks)		Ethan		9pm
10pm	Shades of Blackness (R&B)	Sublab (Industrial)	No Speed Limit (Metal)	WEFUNK(Funk Soul,HipHop)	Deep Shag		Audioscapes	10pm
11pm					Interzone			11pm
12am			Arby					12am

City Council Meetings every 1st & 3rd Tuesday at 7pm. BBC News weekdays at 6am & 7am.

CLASSIFIED

Campus Clubs

$1000 AN HOUR

Each member of your frat, sorority, team, club, etc. pitches in just one hour and your group can raise $1000 in just a few days!

Plus a chance to earn $1000 for yourself!

No cost. No obligation. 1-800-932-0528, ext. 65

NUTRITION CLUB
SOCIAL WITH THE FACULTY
WINE AND CHEESE PARTY
JANUARY 22 AT 5:30-7PM
151 HATHWAY ST. IN SLO
MEMBERS-FREE NONMEMBERS $1
ID'S WILL BE CHECKED

Announcements

X Δ Θ RUSH

January 19-22

Cal Poly's 1st Asian American Interest Sorority
FOR MORE INFO: CALL 543-4838

Announcements

ATTENTION AUTHORS!

El Corral is interested in displaying your book in our "Local Authors" section. All faculty, staff & students who have had a book published call 756-5316 or 756-5302

CASH for COMICS & GAMING ITEMS -or Trade Credit! New comics every Friday - New games weekly! THE SUB COMICS & POSTERS 785 Marsh St-SLO 541-3735

CHEAP THRILLS & RECYCLED RECORDS has MOVED to 553 HIGUERA! Top 50 CD's only $12.98- We pay the MOST CASH for used LP's, tapes, CDs & video games. CHEAP THRILLS, NOW AT 553 HIGUERA ST., SLO 544-0686

Free ESL Class
Practice speaking & learn new vocabulary and cultural facts. Meet new people. Improve your English. 1-3 Friday 10-138 X2067.

GMAT GRE LSAT TEST PREP!

CALL THE PRINCETON REVIEW ANY TIME AT 995-0176 IN CAYUCOS

Announcements

HEY YOU!!!

Backstage Pizza is looking for performers to brighten up their stage. (Bands, solo artists, speakers, poets, etc.) For more info on how you can play drop by Backstage or call 756-1275

MUSTANG DAILY CLASSIFIEDS

HAS A CONVENIENT DROP BOX LOCATED AT THE U.U. INFO DESK. THE ADS WILL BE PICKED UP DAILY AT 11:00 AM.

RECYCLE

MUSTANG DAILY
AT ANY OF OUR SIX CONVENIENT LOCATIONS: KENNEDY LIBRARY, AG BRIDGE (BLDG 10) CAMPUS STORE, THE CELLAR, THE UNIVERSITY UNION, FISHER SCIENCE. MUSTANG DAILY... ONCE AGAIN LEADING THE WAY

Greek News

BELLE KEITH

CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR ΣN PINNING! YOUR SISTERS AT ΣK WISH FOR YOU THE VERY BEST. WE LOVED THE SERENADE GUYS!

ΣΑ

JOIN THE LEADING LADIES OF AGRICULTURE

1/19 INFO NIGHT 7PM BLDG10-223
1/20 FUN-N-GAMES LOCATION TBA
1/21 SUGAR-N-SPICE LOCATION TBA
1/22 BBQ LOCATION TBA
FOR MORE INFO LOOK FOR THE SIGNS OR CALL MELANIE 544-2453

Travel

TAHOE SKI TRIP MAR 20,21,22,23
TRANS. ROOMS 2 LIFTS $298.00
STUDENT GROUP RATES 481-4278

Opportunities

*CAUTION: Make no investments before investigating advertisements in Opportunities which require investments in stock samples, equipment or cash bonds.

Opportunities

TRAVEL SCHOOL

Classes now forming for weekends
Financing now available.
Call 781-2630

US Tracers is currently seeking motivated students in the Santa Barbara area for FT and PT independent work. (800)886-6919

Employment

PART-TIME WORK IN TELEGRAM TRIBUNE NEWS DEPT MACINTOSH SKILLS REQUIRED. DELIVER SAMPLES ASAP TO EDITOR PO BOX 112, SLO 93406

For Sale

FOR SALE: PET RAT
cage included, $20 546-0660 Kris

Roommates

FEMALE ROOMATE(S) NEEDED
OWN ROOM IN 3BDRM HOUSE $325 OR 2 TO SHARE
2 MIN TO POLY
CALL 549-8767 FOR MORE INFO

Rm Avl NOW! $300pm Vry Lrg with loft share with 3 guys Jan rnt is free! Plse call Jon or Mike at 547-1533 Lve msg if not home

Rental Housing

487 MARSH ST.
4BD 2BA YARD W/D HOOK-UP
CALL 543-9119

5 BEDRM 3 BATH NEAR POLY, NEW HOUSE, WSHR/DRYER, SOME UTILITIES INC., AVAIL NOW $1450 + DEP 543-0441

Homes for Sale

BUYING A HOUSE OR CONDO?
FOR A FREE LIST OF HOUSES & CONDOS FOR SALE IN SLO, CALL STEVE NELSON 543-8370

Calvin
and Hobbes
by BILL WATSON

One sport not enough for Cardoza

She hangs up the cleats to take the courts

STEVE PIERCE/Mustang Daily

Poly junior Cathie Cardoza has taken up two sports.

By Kevin Bolinger
Staff Writer

Bo. Deion. Cathie.

Cathie? Is there a new Nike commercial out that none of us has seen?

Nope. It's Cal Poly athlete Cathie Cardoza plugging away at her own two-sport career.

Cardoza, an ag business junior from Modesto, is Cal Poly's version of Bo Jackson and Deion Sanders, starring on both the women's soccer and tennis teams.

In the fall, Cardoza roams the field as a center midfielder and co-captain of the soccer team.

Once the season is finished, she trades in her cleats for a racket to compete for a spot on the tennis team.

All of this while taking a full load of at least 16 units per quarter and being involved in her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta.

Sound like hell on wheels? Not for Cathie.

"I manage my time well," she said. "But it doesn't leave a lot of time for anything else."

That seems to suit her just fine. And she's not getting any complaints from her coaches.

Cal Poly assistant soccer coach Peggy Pendergast said Cardoza is a key component to the team's successful transition from club status to a solid NCAA Division II contender.

"Cathie displays all of the qualities you want in a player," she said. "That's why her teammates voted her as captain."

With the Mustangs' eventual move to Division I, Pendergast feels that taking the next step will be easier with players such as Cardoza leading the way.

"We're definitely ready for Division I," she said. "We have the confidence and skills to succeed."

Success for Cardoza,

"I feel honored to play both sports. I just want to have fun with it,"

Cathie Cardoza,
Poly athlete

however, is not limited to the soccer field.

Tennis has now been added to her intercollegiate sports accomplishments at Cal Poly.

But while making the transition physically may be smooth, the mental adjustment is more difficult and time consuming.

"I'm behind in my mental skills when tennis starts," Cardoza said. "But I'm trying to get my mental game back and go from there."

Cal Poly tennis coach Chris Eppright agrees.

"Physically she's in as good of shape as anyone out there," he said. "But it's tough sitting out most of September and October and then jump back into it."

However, Eppright added that Cardoza is up to the task. "She's just a great athlete," he said.

Although the Mustangs' lineup has not yet been set, Cardoza is among the nine women on the tennis roster.

With two years of eligibility remaining, Cardoza looks forward to taking advantage of all of her athletic opportunities.

"I feel honored to play both sports," she said. "I just want to have fun with it."

Kirkeby sidelined for good

By Kevin Bolinger
Staff Writer

Due to recurring knee problems, Cal Poly men's basketball center Shawn Kirkeby has played his last collegiate game.

Kirkeby, a 6-9 senior, decided Thursday to sit out the remainder of the season as a result of a knee injury he sustained in a summer pick-up game.

"I'm sure I'll still play basketball the rest of my life," Kirkeby said. "But as far as college goes, this is it."

Kirkeby averaged 11.8 points and 5.7 rebounds in six games this season.

The injury represents the end of an illustrious college career.

Last year, Kirkeby averaged 17.3 points per game, earning first-team all-region and first-team all-conference honors.

"Since I originally injured my knee, there was a question as to whether I'd ever be able to come back and play," Kirkeby said.

Mustang men to contend for national title

By Chris Rogers
Staff Writer

Chris Eppright nearly had it all last season in his first year as Cal Poly's tennis coach.

He coached the men's tennis team to a 17-3 record, the season ending with a loss to U.C. Davis in the semifinals of the NCAA Division II National Championships.

By earning coach of the year honors in the California Collegiate Athletic Association, Eppright could probably take some time to relax. Relaxation, however, hasn't produced 25 Mustang All-Americans in the last four seasons.

"We have to maintain a strong work ethic," Eppright said. "Hopefully we'll be peaking in May for the championships."

With all but one member of the team returning, Eppright sees the men's team solid from top to bottom.

Co-captains Mark Nielsen and Marc Ollivier are the top returning veterans for the team.

Nielsen, who won All-American honors in both singles and doubles, will be paired with All-American doubles partner Ricardo Reyes.

Ollivier, a junior, is a returning doubles All-American, having won that

SHERRY GURTNER/Mustang Daily

Poly's Steve Arnott is one of many returners from last year's CCAA-winning team.

honor as freshman also.

Senior Steve Arnott is a returning All-American singles player, and Josh Johnston — who was last year's West Region Rookie of the Year — will be paired with sophomore John Montgomery in doubles.

Other netters who should see some playing time are junior Scott King, sophomore David Mullarkey and freshman Mike Vocker.

With two national championships — 1986 and 1990 — and eight CCAA championships in the last 15 seasons, Eppright has good reason to be optimistic about this year's squad.

"This team definitely has the potential to be better than last year's team," said Eppright.

But by losing CCAA Most Valuable Player Max Allman, the team has to work hard and stay healthy to do well, Eppright said.

Eppright feels that his team will challenge Lander College, UC Davis, Hampton and Rollins for the NCAA title.

Ranked third in the nation in the NCAA preseason rankings, the Mustangs' home-opener is Saturday at 2 p.m. versus Santa Clara.

Ciancio to lead young netters

By Chris Rogers
Staff Writer

Cal Poly women's tennis coach Chris Eppright is halfway there. By recruiting four promising high school players, he must now prepare them for the college level of play.

With no seniors on the women's tennis team this year, Eppright is looking to junior Julie Ciancio for leadership.

Ranked as the fourth-best singles player in NCAA Division II, Ciancio won 20 matches for the Mustangs last year.

Freshman Tracy Arnold has come from Arizona to be paired with Ciancio, in what should be a highly competitive doubles team.

Sophomore Sheri Holmes brings her all-CCAA team honors to the net, and pairs with junior Beth Reed in doubles.

Other players expected to get some action are sophomore Alisa Bailey and freshman standouts Alison Light, Michelle Berkowitz and Emily Schuch.

Also on this year's roster is junior Cathie Cardoza, who started on the Mustangs' women's soccer team last fall.

"The team could be much stronger than last year's," said Eppright. "They are more focused, and we have a strong freshman class."

The fifth-ranked Mustangs open the season on Jan. 23 at Cal Lutheran University.

★ ★ ★ ★ CAL POLY WEEKLY SPORTS SCHEDULE ★ ★ ★ ★
FRIDAY JAN. 15	SATURDAY JAN. 16	SUNDAY JAN. 17	MONDAY JAN. 18	TUESDAY JAN. 19	WEDNESDAY JAN. 20	THURSDAY JAN. 21
MEN'S HOOPS Cal Poly vs. Chapman @ Mott Gym at 8:05 p.m. SWIMMING Cal Poly vs. Santa Cruz @ Cal Poly at 1 p.m. WRESTLING Cal Poly @ San Francisco St. Cal Poly @ Stanford Univ.	MEN'S HOOPS Cal Poly vs. CS Doming. Hills @ Mott Gym at 8:05 p.m. WOMEN'S HOOPS Cal Poly @ CS San Bernardino SWIMMING Cal Poly vs. CS Northridge @ Cal Poly at 1 p.m.	WRESTLING Cal Poly vs. CS Bakersfield @ Mott Gym at 5 p.m.	No events scheduled	No events scheduled	No events scheduled	WOMEN'S HOOPS Cal Poly vs. CS Bakersfield @ Mott Gym at 5 p.m.